

Leadership and Management Essentials

NURS:5002:OEXW - Spring 2025 - open to graduate students

→ nursing.uiowa.edu

Course Description

This 3-semester hour course focuses on roles and strategies for leading and managing others in healthcare environments to influence healthcare delivery and provide a healthy, innovative working environment. The content in this course focuses on selected leadership and organizational concepts essential to leaders in healthcare.

Core Concepts

- Leadership
- Followership
- Management
- Teamwork
- Communication
- Collaboration skills
- Power
- Conflict resolution
- Change management
- Career planning

Instructor

M. Lindell Joseph, PhD, RN, FAAN, FAONL

Dr. M. Lindell Joseph is a healthcare leader, innovator, professor, and distinguished scholar in nursing. She teaches leadership, innovation, health systems improvement, and project development within the College of Nursing MSN-NSA and DNP programs.

Dr. Joseph serves on the AONL Foundation Board of Directors and is currently the research committee co-chair. She co-leads the ALSN and AONL-F, Leadership and Systems Science Council. She chairs the American Association for Colleges of Nursing Health Policy Advisory Council (HPAC). Lastly, she is the co-founder and chair of the National Consortium for Innovativeness in Healthcare.

LEARN MORE

✉ lin-pierce@uiowa.edu

→ nursing.uiowa.edu/academics/nexus

☎ 319-335-7012 📍